

<https://www.oregonlive.com/living/2026/08/38-fall-events-in-the-pacific-northwest-to-fill-your-calendar.html>

38 fall events in the Pacific Northwest to fill your calendar

Updated: Aug. 28, 2026, 8:53 a.m. | Published: Aug. 28, 2026, 6:00 a.m.

The Leavenworth Oktoberfest is one of many delightful fall events in the Pacific Northwest. Jamie Hale/The Oregonian

The air is a little cooler and the leaves have already begun to gather in piles on the sidewalk. Fall is here. Are you ready?

To help with the project of organizing the next three months of your life, we have assembled a list of 38 activities and events, from Fall Festival in Bend to Oktoberfest in Leavenworth, to make sure that even in the depths of back-to-school and closed-toed-shoe season, you always have something fun to look forward to.

The end of summer doesn't have to be the end of good times. Whether it's a giant retro game arcade or world-class rodeo, there's something nearly every weekend of the fall in the Pacific Northwest to keep you entertained.

September

Time-Based Art Festival

The Portland Institute for Contemporary Art produces this five-day art experience that includes talks, installations, music, performances and parties.

Sept. 9-13, multiple locations throughout Portland; prices vary for tickets to individual events, festival passes start at $250; pica.org/tba.

This cosplay was an original character called "The Gray" created by the person in the costume at Rose City Comic Con in 2025. Allison Barr/The Oregonian

Rose City Comic Con

For three days in September, you can celebrate your love of pop culture with cosplay, gaming, anime and celebrity guests including Alan Tudyk, Danny Trejo, Lena Headey, Joe Lo Truglio, Patton Oswalt, Deborah Ann Woll and many more.

Sept. 11-13, Oregon Convention Center, 222 N.E. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd; admission badges start at $58; rosecitycomiccon.com.

Willamette Valley Vineyards' Oregon Grape Stomp Championship & Harvest Celebration

Spend a day at the vineyard watching a grape stomp championship, drinking wine, listening to music and eating food. If you want to participate, you will need to register separately.

Sept. 12-13, 8800 Enchanted Way S.E., Turner; admission $35, ages 20 and younger and designated drivers are free; wvv.com/event/35th-annual-oregon-grape-stomp-championship-harvest-celebration.

Oregon Hop Festival

Experience Oregon's hop harvest, take a hayride, listen to music and, of course, drink beer at the third annual Hop Festival in Woodburn.

Sept. 12-13, 8668 Crosby Road N.E., Woodburn; admission $25, ages 20 and younger are free; topwirebeer.com/oregon-hop-festival.

Shrewsbury Renaissance Faire

Put on your fanciest kirtle and watch jousting whilst chewing on a turkey leg, with a jug of mead in hand.

Sept. 12-13, Kings Valley, Grant Road, near Monmouth; admission $10 per day for kids and seniors, $22 for adults; <https://shrewsburyrenaissancefair.rsvpify.com>.

The Japanese Garden Chrysanthemum Show at the Portland Japanese Garden.
Photo by Jonathan Ley

Ikebana International Chrysanthemum Show

Celebrate the chrysanthemum during this two-day show, during which local practitioners of the art of ikebana will create arrangements that feature the chrysanthemum.

Sept. 12-13, Portland Japanese Garden, 611 S.W. Kingston Ave.; show is free with garden admission $22; japanesegarden.org.

A parade kicks off the Pendleton Round-Up in eastern Oregon. Kent J Edwards |
Special to The Oregonian/OregonLive

Pendleton Round-Up

This week-long rodeo is what Pendleton is known for. There will be concerts, ceremonial dancing, a parade, cowboy breakfasts and bucking broncos. Giddyup!

Sept. 12-19, throughout Pendleton; ticket prices vary;
pendletonroundup.com/events.

Feria de Portland

This annual celebration of flamenco arts and culture will include workshops, vendors, and music and dance performances.

Sept. 13, McMenamins Edgefield, 2126 S.W. Halsey St., Troutdale, free; espacioflamencopdx.com.

Seaside Sandfest

If you are thinking, “Oh, sandcastles? How impressive could that be?” then you obviously haven’t seen pictures from the Seaside Sandfest. These are magnificent sand sculptures that will blow your mind. Plus, on Saturday night, there will be s’mores. A perfect time on the beach.

Sept. 16-21, on the beach off the Promenade in Seaside; $2 gate fee; seasidesandfest.com.

Mount Angel Oktoberfest

Mount Angel is known for its annual Oktoberfest celebration. This Bavarian festival is fun for the whole family and features beer, arts and crafts, a golf tournament, a street dance and a weiner dog race.

Sept. 17-20, Mount Angel, on OR 214 south of Woodburn; most events are free; oktoberfest.org.

Surfers compete in the Cape Kiwanda Longboard Classic on the Oregon coast. Photo by Bowen Childs

Cape Kiwanda Longboard Classic

You don't need a wetsuit to gather on the beach and watch surfers catch the waves. If you get hungry or thirsty, Pelican Brewery will be serving food and beverages. And if the surfing isn't interesting enough, you can watch live music instead.

Sept. 18-20, on Cape Kiwanda beach near Pelican Brewing, Pacific City; free to spectate; capekiwandalongboardclassic.com.

Maryhill Museum of Art Centennial Celebration

Celebrate 100 years since Queen Marie of Romania, granddaughter of Britain's Queen Victoria, dedicated the Maryhill Museum. Enjoy Romanian music, dance and food, regional wines and craft beer, children's activities, historical displays and free museum admission.

Sept. 19, 35 Maryhill Museum Drive, Goldendale, Washington; free; maryhillmuseum.org/centennial-celebration.

Portland Polish Festival

You don't need to fly 15 hours to experience the culture of Poland; you can just head down to the 30th annual Portland Polish Festival. Here you can sample the food, hear the music and see the dances of the central European country.

Sept. 19-20, 3832 N. Interstate Ave.; free; polishfestivalpdx.org.

Nine kite flyers stand side-by-side during the "all fly" portion of Lincoln City's Fall Kite Festival at the D River State Recreation Site. Abigail Landwehr/The Oregonian

Lincoln City Fall Kite Festival

Make a kite, see a kite and fly a kite at this yearly celebration of wind-powered joy machines. This year, the festival will take place at Chinook Winds Casino due to construction in its usual location at D River Wayside.

Sept. 25-27, Chinook Winds Casino Resort, 1777 N.W. 44th St., Lincoln City; free; explorelincolncity.com/events/annual/fall-kite-festival.

Oaks Park Oktoberfest

Portland's own amusement park turns into a Bavarian celebration for three days in September. German food, polka music and, of course, midway rides are all part of the party.

Sept. 25-27, 7805 S.E. Oaks Park Way; ticket prices to be announced; oakspark.com/oktoberfest.

St Josef's Grapestomping Festival

If you've always wanted to stomp grapes, well, here's your chance. Listen to music, eat food, drink wine and stomp those grapes. This festival has been going on for over 40 years in Canby.

Sept. 26-27, St Josef's Winery, 28836 S. Barlow Road, Canby; tickets $10-$120; stjosefswinery.com/st-josefs-winery-events.

A basket of recently harvested white matsutake mushrooms. Jamie Hale/The Oregonian

Stevenson Mushroom Festival

The Stevenson Mushroom Festival is a fungi lover's dream. With crafts, demos and a mushroom-themed fair, this is your chance to dig in on mushrooms.

Oct. 17, throughout Stevenson, Washington; ticket prices vary by event; stevensonmushroomfestival.com.

Corvallis Fall Festival

Head to Corvallis' Central Park to get your holiday shopping done in September. With vendors, music, food and collaborative art projects, it's the perfect way to support local makers and experience the Corvallis community.

Sept. 26-27, Central Park, downtown Corvallis, 650 N.W. Monroe Ave.; corvallisfallfestival.org.

Kennedy School Oktoberfest Brewfest

Dance to polka and pretend you are in Germany at this Oktoberfest at the Kennedy School. Eat kielbasa and pretzels and sample one or five of the 24 German-style beers.

Sept. 26, Kennedy School Gym, 5736 N.E. 33rd Ave.; $35 advance includes 10 tokens and tasting glass; mcmenamins.com/events.

October

Leavenworth Oktoberfest

When October hits, leave those September Oktoberfests behind and head to the real deal in Washington. The Leavenworth Oktoberfest is three weekends of dancing, beer and food in a picturesque Bavarian village.

Oct. 2-3, 9-10, and 16-17; Chelan County, in the Washington Cascades; admission starts at $20, leavenworth.org/oktoberfest.

Bend Fall Festival

Celebrate Bend with an arts and crafts marketplace, live music and a harvest bake-off.

Oct. 2-4, downtown Bend; free admission; bendfallfestival.com.

Portland Greek Festival

Portland's big Greek Festival will happen this year in early October. Try the food, experience the dancing and celebrate the culture at the 73rd installment of this iconic festival.

Oct. 3-5, Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Cathedral, 3131 N.E. Glisan St.; admission $5, ages 10 and younger free; portlandgreekfestival.com.

Runners and walkers travel along South Macadam Avenue in Portland on Sunday, Oct. 5, 2025, during the annual Portland Marathon and half marathon. Mark Graves/The Oregonian

Portland Marathon

Lace up your shoes and run the streets of Portland. Runners can pick between 10k, half and full marathon lengths, and there's also a free kids run.

Oct. 4, various routes through Portland; marathon registration $74-$199; portlandmarathon.com.

QuiltFest Northwest

Billed as the largest indoor quilt show in the Pacific Northwest, this three-day event includes 500 quilts, demonstrations and a vendor mall.

Oct. 8-10, Clark County Event Center, 17402 N.E. Delfel Road, Ridgefield; $10; quiltfestnw.com.

Portland Retro Gaming Expo

Just when it's time to go inside, here comes Portland Retro Gaming Expo with a long list of panels, exhibitors and guests. Most importantly, though, is the large arcade full of classic games.

Oct. 9-11, Oregon Convention Center, 777 N.E. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd; tickets start at $40; retrogamingexpo.com.

Pears grow on the branches of an orchard at The Gorge White House, a prominent stop on the Hood River Fruit Loop. Jamie Hale/The Oregonian

Hood River Valley Harvest Festival

Get into the fall spirit with the Hood River Valley Harvest Festival. Play games, listen to music, watch experts carve pumpkins and visit the farmers market.

Oct. 9-11, Hood River Event Site, Portway Ave., Hood River; $10; hoodriverharvestfestival.com.

Oregon Music Hall of Fame induction concert

Steve Berlin of Los Lobos and singer-songwriter M. Ward will headline the 19th annual Oregon Music Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony and Concert at Aladdin Theater. Come for the concert but stay for the live auction of autographed guitars from Death Cab for Cutie, The Psychedelic Furs and Paul Revere.

Oct. 10, Aladdin Theater, 3017 S.E. Milwaukie Ave.; $30 advance; omhof.org.

Portland Open Studios

Support Portland's creative community by exploring studios throughout the city and witnessing the creative process as it happens.

Oct. 10-11, 17-18, various venues; free; portlandopenstudios.com.

Multnomah Arts Center Community Open House

As part of ADX Fest, the Multnomah Arts Center Community will have hands-on activities and live demos from instructors and local arts guilds.

Oct. 16, 7688 S.W. Capitol Highway; free; multnomahartscenter.org.

"Showy Stickweed," an oil painting on linen by Susan Harrington, was featured in a past iteration of the Sitka Art Invitational. Photo by Harrington

Sitka Art Invitational

More than 300 nature-themed works of art are the centerpiece of this three-day event at Oregon Contemporary.

Oct. 16-18, Oregon Contemporary, 8371 N. Interstate Ave.; admission by donation; sitkacenter.org/sitka-art-invitational.

Washington County Open Studios Tour

One county, two days, 50 artists. Explore the studios of Washington County and watch the artists at work.

Oct. 17-18, at various studios in Washington County; free admission; washcoart.org.

Snowvana Portland

So what if there's no snow in the mountains yet? Snowvana will help you gather your stoke for the upcoming season, with deals on gear, lift tickets and more.

Oct. 23-25, Portland Expo Center, 2060 N. Marine Drive; ticket prices to be announced; snowvana.com/portland.

Portland QDoc Film Festival

Mark your calendar for a three-day film festival dedicated to independent lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender documentaries.

Oct. 23-25, Cinema 21, 616 N.W. 21st Ave.; ticket prices to be announced; qdocfilmfest.org.

November

Literary Arts' Portland Book Festival is an annual tradition with author discussions, workshops, readings and a book fair. Chiara Profenna

Portland Book Festival

Bookworms, unite! The Portland Book Festival is expanding in 2026 to include workshops, readings large and small, pop events and more.

Nov. 2-8, various locations; admission $20 in advance; literary-arts.org.

Verboort Sausage & Kraut Festival

The tiny town of Verboort will celebrate its Dutch heritage with a one-day all-you-can-eat sausage and kraut festival. When you need a break from the eating, check out the Dutch-themed marketplace, the beer garden and the family bingo.

Nov. 7, Visitation Parish, 4285 N.W. Visitation Road, Forest Grove; prices to be announced; verboort.org/dinner.

The Oddities & Curiosities Expo

Do you like the weird? The strange? The creepy? The taxidermied? Then this expo featuring antiques, collectibles and old bones is for you. Just remember: the opossum taxidermy class is extra.

Nov. 7-8, Oregon Convention Center, 777 N.E. Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd.; admission starts at $19; odditiesandcuriositiesexpo.com.

Clark County Open Studios Tour

Every year, this juried event lets visitors into the places in Clark County where artists make work. Spend the weekend on a self-guided tour and experience the creative process up close.

Nov. 7-8, at various venues across Clark County, including downtown Vancouver and Camas; free; artstra.org/open-studios.